CHICAGO - A video shows a federal agent firing pepper balls at protesters outside the ICE processing center in the Chicago suburb of Broadview last m striking a Chicago pastor in the head.

What we know: The footage, captured by Kelly Hayes via Storyful on Sept. 19, shows protesters standing outside the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement facility shouting toward three agents stationed on the roof.

One of the agents begins firing pepper balls and one of them hits Pastor Dav Black of the First Presbyterian Church in the Woodlawn neighborhood. Black falls to the ground as others come to his aid.

Hayes told Storyful she had been at the protest only minutes when she saw get hit. In a post on Bluesky, she said Black was OK.

Big picture view: The incident comes amid heightened federal immigration enforcement in the Chicago area under President Donald Tr which has led to daily and sometimes tense demonstrations outside the Broadview facility.
